

Cheering Up a Storm. . .

Fall Cheerleading

When you see a squad of cheerleaders, does it make you want to jump to your feet and shout 'Go team go!?' That's what happened to Indian football fans when the Varsity squad did their stuff at the Friday night games.

Every week the girls donned their maroon and white and motivated the crowd to support the team. By mid-season, everyone was chanting the lively cheers along with the squad—even some football players. The cheers helped to keep the spirits up, even in the lowest moments. 'For not being as big (as other squads), we did just as well—especially in loudness', said Senior Christie Starkweather.

The school was proud of its cheerleaders for their efforts and abilities. They were a part of the fine tradition of Indian Football; the part that had the kick, the noise, the smiles. Games just wouldn't have been the same without them.

Sophomore cheerleader, Serena Banks, leads the front row. Serena was one of the two 10th graders that came up to help the Varsity fill out their ranks.

Kristen Miller leads the girls in a lively crowd pleaser. Kristen was one of the faithful cheerleaders in all of her four years in high school.
