

Cassie Foley carries Resusca-Annie to her place on the SADD Homecoming float. Cassie found herself doing a lot of PR work as the SADD president.

Activities in our school took students. . .

Beyond Academics

Imagine how boring school would have been without clubs or activities! We needed them to break up the monotony of the school year. September to June without the Student Council, the Art Club, and FHA, etc., would have been longer than it seemed.

The clubs and activities that were available to us served several purposes. Obviously, they gave us something enjoyable to occupy our time. They also taught us 'extras' that we couldn't learn in class, like the proper way to play darts, how to effectively lift weights, the art of the theater, and how to keep books. The clubs and activities also provided us with an opportunity to socialize with each other.

Great memories were made in our meetings of our clubs and activities. They added more to our days than academics.