Drama Club

O-M had a fine Drama Club. It, like any other fine arts organization, attempted to bring out the feelings we sometimes kept hidden inside of ourselves.

In the Drama Club, we went through exercises meant to improve our concentration. They helped us get into the character that we were trying to portray.

When all of us finally decided on a play that we would enjoy doing, we rehearsed as much as possible. All of the rehearsing lead to an artistic and polished performance.
